

ERCST Privacy Policy

This document outlines how ERCST processes your personal data we gather when you register to an event through our website, or when you contact us directly.

How does ERCST use your personal data?

ERCST may store any personal data that you choose to send or provide to us by means of, for example, registering for an event through our website, contacting us through our website, contacting us directly via mail, or signing up to our newsletter.

ERCST only stores data that you provide to us directly. The types of data we collect are limited to: names, email addresses, postal addresses, telephone numbers, names of your employer and job titles.

The data we collect can be used for ERCST's internal operations. Moreover, ERCST may use the data you provide us to communicate with you through email, and possibly other means, regarding ERCST's activities and events that we think could be of interest to you. If you wish, you are always be able to opt-out of receiving these types of communications at any time (see below).

Disclosure to third parties

ERCST does not share nor sell your personal data to anyone or any other organisation.

Your Privacy Rights

You can always choose to not to disclose information to us. However, do keep in mind that some data is required to register for events organised by ERCST.

You can opt out at any time of receiving any email communications sent by ERCST, by using the unsubscribe link in the emails we send, or by contacting us at dvangenechten@ercst.org.

In case you wish to access, review, update, and/or delete any personal data we hold, you can send an email to dvangenechten@ercst.org and we will process the request as soon as possible.

In case you have questions about this policy, you may send a mail outlining your questions to dvangenechten@ercst.org, and we will address your concerns.
